Archie McCall-Inglewood,

The Stubbs and their followers came down from Caledon Village, which was called Charleston at that time, to search for guns. They got a good many, but when they came to the cooper shop they demanded the right to search for my grandfather's gun. They were asked for the search warrant and they replied that it was loyalty was their search warrant. Upon this they picked up a broad axe and chased the rebels up the road.

A few days after this occurrence, about twenty of the boys decided to go to Charleston, regain their guns and give the Stubbs gang a thrashing. When they reached the house in the village, the grandmother was sitting in the sun in front of the house. Immediately she ran in, bolted the doors and called upon her five loyal boys to shoot the rebels. The broke down the front door and not seeing anyone, went upstairs and found the lady

WHEN POLITICS MEANT FISTICUFFS

by Fred Williams.

DO YOU KNOW that politics nowadays is a silk gloved game compared with conditions even here in Ontario less than half a century ago? It is my honor to count among my political and personal friends, Robert S. White, popularly known as "Bob," now M.P. for Mount Royal, and the only member now living who sat in the House of Commons with Sir John A. Macdonald. When his gifted father, Hon. Thomas White, who had been Minister of the Interior in the Macdonald cabinet and M.P. for Cardwell (now absorbed in Dufferin) died, Bob, who was then the editor of the Montreal Gazette, was invited by the Conservative party to succeed his father as M.P. for Cardwell. That was in 1888, just when the agitation over the Jesuits Estates bill was at its height and the Liberals were doing their best to encourage the disgruntled Orangemen and disrupt the Conservative party. At first it was thought that Bob would have a walk-over, but wires were pulled and it was decided by the malcontents that a local candidate must be put in the field. The choice fell upon William Stubbs, a veterinary surgeon, and a fight was on. Conservative headquarters descended en masse upon the county. On nomination day, Sept. 26, 1888, the C. P. train from Toronto carried to Mono Road a distinguished party, including Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice. A chronicler of the day wrote that the party were met by Bob White, Clarke Wallace and others and were "surrounded by a delegation, headed by the Caledon East brass band, which played a rollicking college air, the words of which go like this:

66146 DF

> Hurrah for Mary, hurrah for the lamb,
> Hurrah for the teacher, who didn't care a ——
> Where Mary went the lamb was sure to go
> Shouting the battle-cry of freedom.

And then the parade started off for Mono Mills.

Among those present were John Herbert Beatty of Toronto; the "organizing peacemaker," Bob Birmingham; W. H. Hammill, the then local member; Dr. Henry, ex-mayor of Orangeville; William McCulla, M.P. for Peel; Sheriff Broddy of Brampton; "Fighting Bob Evans"; Colonel Tyrwhitt of Simcoe; E. J. Hearn, "Tottenham's blond young lawyer"; Col. McBrien, "Mono's Champion"; "Went Willoughby, the coming local man," and others not so well known. The visitors went to lunch in the Duggan House and the electors milled around outside. Suddenly there was a stir. Bob Evans appealed to Bill Stubbs to withdraw, and allow Bob White a walkover. Bill refused; somebody called somebody a liar; "something struck Mr. Stubbs on the neck and knocked him backward; something wound around his neck, and put his head in chancery, while 'dull, sickening thuds' on his physiognomy waked the echoing hills. The dust slaked its thirst with the blood that flowed before the satiated spectators rescued Mr. Stubbs, and took him to a doctor's office, there to repair the damage done his right eye and his other wounds."

But that did not prevent his nomination; "Bob White found himself pitted against an opponent, who, in a back sitting room, was resting with one eye covered with a piece of raw beef and a lump on the side of his head that spoiled the set of his hat," and who was unable to take part in the speaking which followed the nomination. Clarke Wallace urged the election of Bob White; Thomas Swinterton (sic), of Bolton, reeve, of Albion, protested against an outsider coming to Cardwell; Bob White asked for support for "the grand old party and the grand old flag" and denounced the Grit cry for unrestricted reciprocity; Colonel Tyrwhitt urged party unity; Went Willoughby said White would win that election but would not be elected again in 1901 (a prediction which proved incorrect); McCulla of Peel appealed to the party loyalty; Bob Evans made a fighting speech and asked whether Bill Stubbs was open to further reciprocal negotiations; ~~to fur~~ Elgin Myers, of Orangeville, although an avowed Grit, supported Stubbs; and Sir John Thompson appealed for support of the Conservative policy of building up a greater and a united Canada.

The crowd was moving away when Stubbs came on to the balcony. A big white bandage over his right eye partly hid his wounds, but the patches of blood that still smeared his face and dyed his shirt collar gave him a war-scarred ~~appar~~ appearance. His first words were, "I'm badly disfigured, but still in the ring," and he then threw from the balcony a number of his printed addresses. The meeting was over.

A few weeks afterwards Bob White was elected by 139 majority; he was re-elected in 1891 by 284; but when he retired in 1895 to become collector of customs at Montreal, Bill Stubbs had his revenge, for he was elected at a by-election on Christmas Eve by 226 majority and held the seat at the general elections of 1896. His later campaigns were comparatively peaceful, without fisticuffs.

THE EVENING TELEGRAM 30 May, 1924.

PUT END TO "POCKET BOROUGH"

CARDWELL VOTERS REBELLED

"How did the Manitoba Remedial Bill come to be introduced?" asked the Telegram reporter who was interviewing Mr. William Stubbs, of Caledon, Ont., as related in a recent article.

"It was forced on Sir Mackenzie Bowell by Sir Charles Tupper," was the reply. "I felt sorry for Bowell, too. Tupper came over from London, determined to be Premier, and he smashed the Conservative party in his efforts. ... When the vote in the general election was taken, I saw men with tears rolling down their faces as they voted. In fact I saw one man who did not dare to go home afterwards. He went out to British Columbia for six months to let things blow over."

"There is no constituency of Cardwell now, is there?"

LAST OF CARDWELL

"No, when the people of this district decided they wanted no more handpicked candidates, they let Cardwell pass away," was the reply. "You know that was what drove me into politics. I was tired of seeing Cardwell a 'pocket borough' for the Government. You know, in every general election there is sure to be some useful member of the Government defeated. The elections were not held on the same day then, as they are now, and if a useful man was defeated somewhere, they would find a seat for him in Cardwell, or some other place like it. It was all right for the Government, but a good many of us here thought it was time to put a stop to the practise."

STRIKING FIGURES

"Looking back over your political life, whom do you remember as the most striking figures?" he was asked.

"Sir John Macdonald, first of course. Next to him I was impressed most with D'Alton McCarthy and Judge Bulock."

"How did the constituency of Cardwell happen to be wiped out?"

"Well, in the old days, Cardwell constituency was in three counties, Caledon and Alliston townships were in Peel country, Mono township was in Dufferin county, and Adjala in Simcoe. Laurier's redistribution bill of 1900 or thereabouts, put Cardwell off the political map. In my opinion, when the next redistribution comes, you will see many more changes of that kind, particularly in Quebec,"

LOVED TROTTING HORSE

"Have you beem much of a sportsman? Dr. Stubbs was asked.

"I used to be a great lover of trotting horses," was the reply. "In fact, I drove a race at Brantford a year ago. In my younger days I owned and campaigned two fine trotters, Gen. Beamish and Tom Jefferson. I have driven trotters at the Toronto Exhibition. I campaigned with Tom Jefferson and Gen. Beamish for several seasons in the United States, and won good purses, too. I drove my horses in all the principal cities of the U. S., in fact."

D. V. INSPECTOR

After retiring from politics, Dr. Stubbs was very much in demand as a veterinary surgeon, and was appointed Dominion Veterinary Inspector by the Laurier Government. In those days Canadian cattle would not be admitted to the U. S. without a tuberculosis test. Canada had no official to conduct the tests, and so all cattle which entered the U. S. had to be examined by U. S. Inspectors, which process cost Canadian exporters too much. So Dr. Stubbs was asked to apply for the post, which he did, with success, holding the office for twenty years. When he retired, the Canadian Veterinary Journal paid him this tribute: "One ~~veterinary medicin~~ of Canada's pioneers inthe realm of veterinary medicine has just retired from active work. Dr. William Stubbs, of Caledon, Ont., possesses the unique distinction of being one of the first men to graduate in veterinary science at the old Ontario Veterinary College after its inauguration by the late Prof. Andrew Smith, in 1868. In the graduation class of that year there were but two, one of them being Dr. Stubbs. Immediately after obtaining his degree, Dr. Stubbs returned to Caledon, where he conducted a large practice for many years. In the early '90's Dr. Stubbs was induced to enter politics, and he successfully contested a seat in the Federal House. In 1897, he was appointed Dominion Inspector." ..

MUSICIAN AND MINSTREL

Dr. Stubbs' life might well be placed in three classes: Politics, veterinary science and music. In the '70's he played E flat tenor in the Orangeville band. As he says: "Emory McLean, at the time, was trying to play sub bass." For a full year Dr. Stubbs struggled with his E flat tenor, and then Steve Wallace landed in from Guelph and took charge of the band. The aggregation was weak in lead at the time, and Dr. Stubbs hopped from E flat tenor to B flat cornet, which he played with great credit till all the band's instruments were sold to London. ..

INDOMITABLE

.. He moved to Caledon (or Charleston, as it was then called) and started a brass band. What became of that band, only the stars can tell, but that it was a going concern is proved by the fact that on Dr. Stubbs parlor table lies a battered B flat cornet, purchased in London in 1875, which, under the masterly touch of Dr. Stubbs, helped the Caledon band to make the welkin ring for many years. ...

ANCIENT MEMORIES

..... As showing the little hard feeling shown by his political opponents, a story is apropos: Before Dr. Stubbs defeated Mr. Walsh, a little son was born to the wife of the latter. When the youngster grew up he was honored with the nickname of "Billy Stubbs Walsh," by his father.

Dr. Stubbs' home in Caledon is graced with the presence of a charming daughter. She was born a few days before one of her father's victorious fights, and was honored with the name of "Anna Victoria Cardwell Stubbs.". ....

Dr. Stubbs has been an Orangeman for 34 years, and is also a Free Mason. His father helped to start the Orange lodge in Caledon, which afterwards became Ballycroy Lodge, No. 280. ..

TOWNSHIP MEETING

"We had no building in which to hold township meetings in old days," said Dr. Stubbs. "I recall one occasion when we had to hold a metting on the street, and divide the voters up on each side of the street to hold a vote. There was a township constable to be elected, and a man with a pail of whiskey was wandering round. It happened that when the vote was taken most of the crowd was over on the side of the man with the pail."

A FENIAN RAID

Dr. Stubbs took no part in the immortal doings which were rife at the time of the Fenian Raid, but recalls the Fenian Scare at Mono Mills with gusto. It seems that a man, slightly under the influence, had been out in the country and was returning to Orangeville. Coming along the road in the twilight he thought he saw a band of Fenians camped by the roadside. He went away from there and landed in Orangeville without lingering. His story to Orangeville patriots lost nothing in the telling.

Orangeville loyalists, much perturbed, formed fours and marched out to look for the alleged Fenians. When they arrived at "Fenian Field" they found nothing but stumps. Two practical jokers, who hid in the woods, yelled "Halt!" to the detachment, members of which were greatly perturbed, and some members of the detachment started to race their horses. Then, to cap the climax, a shot was fired. The report of the gun was heard in Orangeville, where the Home Guard was formed up for attack. The Home Guard shouted, "The Fenians are coming!" It was alleged the Home Guarders broke all records for speed, and one of the chief officers of the Guard was found afterwards under a bed.

HATES "RED TAPE"

In his younger days, Dr. Stubbs was a member of the 36th Battalion, and lieutenant in No. 9 Company. He expresses the opinion that there is "too much red tape" about the militia and too much distinction between officers and privates. ...

Dr. Stubbs' son, W. F. M. Stubbs, saw service in the Great War, putting in four years with the British Imperials. He now practises as a veterinary surgeon in Caledon, but is still a reservist of the British army. ....

"BIG TIMES IN THE BARN"

Mono Mills Idyl.

The Toronto Evening Telegram, of Friday, December, 20, 1895, carried a vivid description of the meeting in Mono Mills, where the nomination meeting for the Cardwell bye-election was held. The story is headed "Big Times in the Barn," and tells how the nominations took place in the Anglican Church hall of Mono Mills, but the Stubbs men could not secure any of the three halls in the village. The story goes on:

"GOSH!"

The hours dragged on. In the Church of England hall Returning Officer Johnston took his place on the platform an hour before 12. He pulled out his watch and looked at it.

"Gosh!" said the returning officer, "I thought it was noon, I'll join you gents down there by the stove," and he put on his cap, pulled out his pipe, and took up a commanding place in the circle of politicians. Most of the men who were in the hall were not partisans. To use their expression, they vote for the best man.

"Two O'clock has come, gentlemen," said Mr. Johnston, in his picturesque English "and I now declare that I ain't got nothin' more to do with this meetin' except to declare that Stubbs, Willoughby and Henry are nominated."

"Then," said a grey-haired patriarch, "I have much pleasure in proposing that Mr. Johnston be the chairman of this meeting."

"I'll take it," said Mr. Johnston, "and I'll do justice betwixt man and man, and if you fellows in the back of the hall makes less noise I'll promise you a good meetin'. The ministers are comin', and they can't get in."

"Why not?" chorused the crowd.

"Because thereisn't room," said Mr. Johnston.

It was then that a brilliant idea occurred to one of the audience. "I move that we all adjourn to the old Drill Hall. It hasn't been used for years, and there's no seats, but it'll hold a thousand people. There's five thousan people waitin' outside for to get in here. Let's all go down there."

The idea commended itself to the candidates and to the chairman. The hall was emptied and a long procession straggled down the slushy road. George Eulas Foster plunged into a puddle, and was recued from imminent peril of wet feet. The head of the column, headed by Chairman Johnston, turned up a lane, and drew up in front of a big, weather-beaten barn. ..

.. And so the meeting went on. W. B. Willoughby, the Government candidate, was first and talked about the tariff.....

The Liberal candidate, Henry, also talked tariff. He denied that the rival camps had any right to ask him to step out of the way. ...

"HURROO! FOR STUBBS!"

Then up jumped Billy Stubbs, the darling of that crowd. .. Billy Stubbs, in blue flannel suit, worn in deference to the farmers, and wearing a white silk tie, donned in honor of his correctly-clad leader, bowed many times. ...

There was a reception for D'Alton McCarthy that was not less enthusiastic than that given to Mr. Stubbs, his henchman. The man from North Simcoe was not mild in his handling of young Mr. Willoughby. The Conservative candidate had talked about doing justice to Manitoba's minority. Justice had been done them. Parliament had been said to have been ordered by the Privy Council to do a certain thing. ..

There was little new in McMullen's Grit speech, and by the time Foster got on his feet the evening was drawing in. When he was half done the night had stolen through the chinks of the barn, and all inside was darkness. .... Over the roads of the four townships their sleighs sped, and as Mr. Johnston bade good-bye to his distinguished friends, he said:

"It's no trick to run a meetin' if you have that firm hand and soft touch that Larryerr talkes about."

FOUGHT WITH D'ALTON McCARTHY

TALKED THE GOVERNMENT OUT

..

Caledon, Ont. May 17 -- To shake the hand of a man who shook the hand of the late D'Alton McCarthy, and who stood shoulder to shoulder with that great opponent of Manitoba Separate Schools in the fierce fight which raged over that question in 1895 and 1896, was the privilege of a Telegram reporter in this pretty little village.

The gentleman in question is Dr. William Stubbs, ex-M.P., who now, with his political fighting days behind him, sits at his ease surrounded by loving relatives....

When the Telegram met Dr. Stubbs it saw a man who carried his 79 years lightly .....

How Dr. Stubbs was reflected in the eys of his fellow-citizens of Cardwell thirty years ago may be judged by a perusal of an Orangeville Banner Supplement, which, under the caption of "The People's William", thus described him:

AT AGE OF 50.

.."The Banner has obtained for its readers a fair portrait of Mr. William Stubbs, the present Conservative representative for Caldwell in the House of Commons for ~~Sandx~~ Canada, who is also a candidate for the ensuing election for the suffrages of the electors of that constituency. Mr. Stubbs is now in the 50th year...

"He was born and always resided in the picturesque village of Charleston, in the flourishing and prosperous township of Caledon. His father was Mr. William Stubbs, a native of Fermanagh, Ireland, who, in the year 1824 settled in Charleston, where he died some years ago at the ripe age of 75 years. .. Mr. James Stubbs, grandfather of the present member for Cardwell, emigrated from Ireland to Canada with his on.....

FATHER SERVED IN '37.

"In the troublesome times of 1837 Dr. Stubbs' father served in the active militia force under Captain Willoughby. About eight years ago the present member for Cardwell married Ann Gillespie, daughter of William Gillespie, farmer, who died in Orangeville in 1875. In the general elections of ~~1877~~ 1887 Dr. Stubbs was the candidate opposed to Mr. R. S. White, ex-M.P., who, notwithstanding his resorting to every means known to political adventurers to ensure success, succeeded in getting a majority of only 139. His contest was a fearless and manly protest against that policy which hitherto prevailed of delivering Cardwell into the hands of outside politicians, and in favor of representation by one of her own sons. All parties in Cardwell are under a debt of gratitude to Dr. Stubbs for being the first to take this bold and manly stand.

DF 66160

"PEOPLE'S WILLIAM"

About thirty years after the above was written the Telegram met Dr. Stubbs...Naturally the first subject was the bye-election when Dr. Stubbs ran against Wellington Wiloughby. The latter was with the Government and Separate schools for Manitoba; Dr. Stubbs was one of the "lions in the path."

Judging by the utterances of Dr. Stubbs it was not hard to get the impression that political campaigning has changed since those times....

SCHOOL QUESTION.

"I ran as an Independent against Wellington Willoughby in the bye-election in 1895," said Dr. Stubbs. "The bone of contention was the Manitoba Spparate School question. In a nutshell, the Government wanted to force Separate Schools on Manitoba, at the bidding of the Roman Catholic Hierarchy, and introduced a measure called the 'Remedial bill.' A few of us, led by D'Altan McCarthy, opposed it. The Government brought down the bill about three weeks before the tenure of office of the Government expired. They had the majority to force the bill through, and our only chance was to talk the bill and the Government out. We did it, too. You know the House was in committee, and in committee a member could talk as long as he liked.

LONG DISTANCE TALKING

"The House sat for three weeks, night and day. There were only eight or nine of us to do the talking against the bill. It was about the 3rd of April when we started our fight, and the term of the Government expired on the 25th of April. During those three weeks the McCarthyites did most of the talking, and the end of the matter was that the Government had to leave office without having passed that Remedial bill. ...

FORCED BY McCARTHY

"The feeling against Separate schools for Manitoba was very strong in this district at that time, was it not?" Dr. Stubbs was asked.

"It was," was the reply, "and I believe the women, though they had no votes then, had a good deal of influence with the men who opposed it. ...

"What brought about the bye-election here in 1895?"

"Well, you see, "Bob" White, the Montreal man who had the seat here, resigned to take the post of Collector of Customs at Montreal. That left Cardwell open and D'Alton McCarthy taunted the Government with being afraid to bring on an election. At last they had to 'call' him, and when the bye-election came off I was chosen as the McCarthyite candidate."

WARM CAMPAIGN

.. The Government sent down seven cabinet ministers to fight for Willoughby, my opponent. In addition to the cabinet ministers there were 77 Government M.P.'s here. They had afternoon and evening meetings for three weeks, and I won by 285, and they counted me out of at least 200 votes," said Dr. Stubbs with rather a vengeful glitter in his eye. "I know they did, for, after I took my seat in the House, McCarthy told me I should move for an examination of the ballots cast in Cardwell. I told him I was new in Parliament and didn't know the way to go about it, so he sat down and wrote out the application for me.

"The examination showed that, in one sub-division, my own, I had been deprived of 14 ballots; in another there was a mistake of 70 ballots. Yes, I am quite sure they robbed me of at least 200 votes."

"Can you tell us of any exciting incident in the campaign here?"

$75,000.

"Well, the most exciting incident I know of was $35,000 sent from Ottawa to the Bank of Hamilton at Orangeville" said Dr. Tubbs, with a twinkle in his eye. "It was to be used to defeat me, but I believe we got the most of it, after all. We told our followers to take the money if it were offered to them. They took it and turned it in to our campaign fund, for we had precious little money, I can tell you. Twenty-five thousand of the money came shortly after the campaign started, and another $10,000 about ten days later. One man, who was believed to be a supporter of Willoughby, went into one of the Government committee rooms, and they gave him $700. He walked across the street to one of our committee rooms and handed over the $700 to us.

GREAT MISTAKE

"I had a talk with Hon. Mr. Foster when I was at Ottawa afterwards," went on Dr. Stubbs, "and it was engineered by him. He asked me why, in my opinion, the Government candidate was defeated in Cardwell, and I told him the Government's policy was wrong in regard to Separate schools in Manitoba. They must change it if they expected to win in the coming general elections. Some time afterwards Hon. Mr. Foster told me there had been a caucus of the Government members, and they had arrived at the conclusion that my views were wrong; that the Government's policy was popular in the country, and that they were sure of victory in the general elections. And so they went to the country, and got licked," said the old gentleman, tersely.

"I was re-elected in the general elections," went on the veteran. "My opponent was W. L. Walsh, of Orangeville, I beat him by 480 votes. The whole countryside was worked up over the issue. Seven cabinet ministers did NOT come to that campaign, though, and a campaign fund of $75,00 did not find its way down to try and defeat me.

In the general election thirteen McCarthy men were returned. Poor D'Alton McCarthy was killed in Toronto about two years after the election.

DEFEATED IN 1900.

"I was defeated in 1900 by Robert Johnson, when I ran as an independent, in fact, I was always an independent. I never attended a caucus of either party while I was at Ottawa. Not ~~that I had plenty of invitations, though.~~ but This with the ghost of a smile.

BY HIS OWN FIRESIDE

Billy Stubbs at Home

Caledon, June 14. - (Special) - When the fortunes of political warfare returned William Stubbs to the bosom of the little village of Caledon the god of battle was not kinder to the victor than to the slain. Sam Johnson sits for Cardwell. Fifteen hundred a year and mileage is his reward. .... Weighing the better and the worse, contrasting the balance with the contentment of life in Caledon as a salaried officer of the Crown, Billy Stubbs would not exchange places with Sam Johnson, M.P., if the latter had a baronetcy to throw in.

You can never understand the intensity of human feeling that burns a negro at the stake until you suggest to the assembly which foregathers nightly beneath the awning of Johnny Dodds' general store that Billy Stubbs' treachery to the cause of independence won him the Government position ~~which~~ he holds. Billy Stubbs could never have got that position if he had not been high up as a horse doctor, they said, with an emphasis that admitted of no contradiction.

"Billy Stubbs is the best veterinary in Canada. That's why he gets $1,250 a year and expenses. All the village knows that."

BELOVED IN BOTH CAMPS.

Billy Stubbs' champions are not exclusively the adherents of Liberalism in Caledon. Since his downfall on November 7th last Conservative opposition has been mellowed, though perhaps at the cost of certain Liberal antagonism.... Armed with the patronage of Cardwell, for such is the reward of the defeated Government candidate, Stubbs proceeded to appoint the census enumerators of his county without regard to party lines. He appointed friends, it mattered not whether they swore by Sir Wilfrid Laurier or by Robert L. Borden. That act, though it alienated a few selfish Liberals, made William Stubbs the beloved of Tory Cardwell. And so it is to-day the Stubbs' glorifiers and admirers know no distinction on political lines. ..

HIS WORDLY STATE.

The Stubbs homestead was once the pride of Caledon. A beautiful homestead it is; a large brick house build on the old Colonial plan far back from the main street, acres of surrounding lawn, well trimmed hedges and shapely spruce and cedars planted years ago by Billy Stubbs. Another master now rules and old Stubbs homestead, and a neat little cottage across the way Billy Stubbs calls home. This story of the mansion to cottage a villager sadly related to an audience on the front steps of the old hotel which commands a full view of the old Stubbs estate. Among the listeners were Hon. F. R. Latchford and Hon. J. M. Gibson.

"Politics?" said one of them, in a tone half enquiry half foregone conclusion.

"No, it was not politics," the villager promptly replied. "It was Billy Stubbs' heart, the biggest heart any man ever had. Did any man ever ask Billy Stubbs for help that did not get it? He refused nothing, he endorsed notes, he was every man's friend--that's why." ...

FRIEND OF McCARTHY'S.

Billy Stubbs' reputation does not depend on village testimony alone. His claims to ability are supported by the late D'Alton McCarthy.....

IN CLOVER NOW.

Every one of the qualities which endeared Billy Stubbs to D'Alton McCarthy are known to his fellow-villagers, and there is general rejoicing at the good luck which befell their popular idol when he fell heir to a Government job at $1,250 a year and travelling expenses. .....

LEADS THE BAND.

A bandmaster of some talent and wide reputation in Caledon is Billy Stubbs. He marshalled the boys for the first performance of the season the other day when the Latchford-Gibson-Graham outfit swept down upon the place. .....

Obituary

DR. W. STUBBS

Following a long and active career, the death took place Sunday of Dr. William Stubbs, veterinary surgeon, at his residence in Caledon, near here. Few men were known as well in this section as Dr. Stubbs, for he had lived all his life in the village, where he was born 82 years ago. He graduated from the Ontario Veterinary College, and, returning to his native village, built up a large practice. Dr. Stubbs took a deep interest in the development of his community. For a number of years he was a councillor, and served Caledon as Reeve for one term. In 1895 he entered the federal arena, running in a by-election as a follower of Dalton McCarthy. He was successful in being elected, defeating his opponents, W. B. Willoughby, Conservative, and Robert B. Henry, Liberal. At the regular election the next year he defeated W. L. Walsh, Conservative, of Orangeville. Being twice successful on the McCarthy ticket, he made a third attempt in 1900, but was defeated by Robert Johnston, Conservative, of Caledon. Shortly after he was appointed inspector of animals for Ontario by the Dominion Department of Agriculture of Ottawa, and was engaged in this work until his retirement about five years ago.

In late years he devoted much of his leisure time to hunting, which was his hobby. The Caledon Hunt son of Wm. grandson of James Sr

1926 82/44

Club, with a large membership, was organized by him and he presided over it for many years. Although in his 81st year, Dr. Stubbs accompanied the club last year. One of the party was accidently shot and killed, and this had a telling effect on Dr. Stubbs. Since then he had not touched a gun. In religion he was a Presbyterian. He was a member of Harris Lodge, 216, A. F. and A. M., of this town, and of Ballycroy Orange Lodge. His wife, formerly Annie Gillespie of Caledon, died 21 years ago. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. A.P.Nicholson and Mrs. Ross Wallace, Toronto, and Dr. W. F.R.Stubbs, Caledon, is a son.

We have been instructed by Mr. John Stubbs of the Twp. of Caledon in the County of Peel to apply to you for information respecting lot 20, Centre Road West half in the sd. Twp. of Caledon. It appears that this lot about 35 years ago was granted to a soldier (name unknown) who sold out his right to one Francis Nixon of the Twp. of Chinguacousy; from him it was transferred to one James Stubbs & by him exchanged to another person of the same name the Father of the present claimant who willed it to this John Stubbs who has now been in possession over 30 years. The property has now become valuable and as no patent has ever issued he wishes to be informed what steps are necessary for him to take to obtain same.

Samuel Stubbs, J.P.

Mr. Samuel Stubbs, J.P., who died last week at Seven Persons, Alta., was born in the Township of Caledon, in the County of Peel, his father being a pioneer of that Township. The late Mr. Stubbs was for many years a leading citizen of the village of Charleston, and at one time a member of the Township Council. He was a man of sterling integrity, greatly esteemed by all who knew him. His sense of fair play and his high rectitude were greatly recognized, and he gave great care to the adjudication of any cases which came before him in his capacity as a Justice of the Peace. Deceased was an elder brother of Wm. Stubbs, V.S. ex-M.P. for Cardwell. Besides his wife, who was formerly Miss Morrison, of Caledon, and who returned to her old home from the West a few weeks ago, there are five sons, William, Samuel, Martin, Bert and Fred all in the West. Mrs. John Harris, of Caledon, is a sister.

JOHN STUBBS, SEN.

Son of James Sr

The subject of this memoir was born in the county of Fermanagh, Ireland, on August 28, 1810. He came to Canada with his parents in 1824, and settled in Toronto township, county Peel, where they remained for some years, finally, however, making their home in the township of Caledon, same county. Here John Stubbs became the owner of a fine property, which is still in the possession of his sons. In 1836 he married Hannah Landon, of the township of Nelson, county Halton, who became the mother of his eight children, three of whom - two daughters and one son - died a few years ago, and preceded father and mother to their long home in the better country.

He and his wife were converted in the Methodist church, Charleston (Caledon), under the faithful ministry of Rev. Wm. Sutten, in 1857, and remained loving and true in their allegiance to Christ until death, and then claimed eternal reward. Bro. Stubbs died in the faith on November 25, 1892, full of years as of faith, and his remains were laid to rest in the family plot, Charleston.

Dear Sir

In reply to your inquiry regarding Ambrose Stubbs.

All the information you have about him is correct with the exception of the record of Ambrose Stubbs of Caledon being killed in 1915 by the falling limb of a tree.

It was Ambrose Stubbs father James Stubbs who was killed by the limb of a tree on his own (James Stubbs') farm the west half of lot 20 concession one Caledon East.

All your other entries are correct and refer to the same man R.A. Stubbs.

Yours Truly Elgin Stubbs.

DEATH OF MRS. JAMES STUBBS

Mrs. James Stubbs, a lifelong resident of Caledon township, died at the home of her son, Mr. R. A. Stubbs, lot 25, con. 4, east, Caledon, on Sunday, January 26th, in her 83rd year. Although she had lived to such a ripe old age, she was in fair health until quite recently. Her demise was due to her advanced years and the consequent wasting away of the physical frame, rather than to any positive ailment. Mrs. Stubbs, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Limebeer, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Limebeer of Caledon. She was born on lot 20, 2nd line, west, Caledon, and following her marriage went to reside on lot 20, Centre Road, where she continued to live until the death of her husband in January, 1915. She then went to Wiarton to reside with her daughter, Mrs. S. R. Dunham. Following the death of the latter between three and four years ago, she returned to Caledon and had since resided with her son, Mr. R. A. Stubbs, the only surviving member of her family. She also leaves five grandchildren and six great grandchildren. Mrs. Stubbs was a warm-hearted, kindly woman, a devoted wife and mother and an excellent neighbor. She was a member of the United Church and prior to union was connected with Caledon Methodist Church.

The funeral was held from the home of her son to the family plot in Caledon cemetery Wednesday afternoon, Rev. A. J. Orr, of Mono Mills, having charge of the services.
